

How can educational leaders increase the quality and transparency of practical training in the hospitality and food sector?

Duration: October 2006 – October 2008

The aim of the project is to develop a process for quality improvement and enhancement of learner experience in a workplace-learning environment within the hospitality and food sectors across Europe

By achieving the aims of the project a number of positive outcomes are envisaged as follows:

- A product which can be adopted by other industry sectors
- Increased motivation and empowerment for the learner
- A set of standardised quality indicators which will promote transparency of competences among employers across Europe
- Improved quality of workforce skills and competences in the food and hospitality sector
- Improved image of the food and hospitality sector as an attractive career choice
- Greater number of recruits attracted to the vocational education sector
- Improved industry-education links
- Better retention rates in both industry and education
- The formation of new relationships among partners could generate new developments in future
- Dissemination of the project results to government organisations and industry representatives could encourage greater support for workplace learning in each of the partner countries
- Contribution to the economic development and competitiveness of the partner countries
